Show Quest 2019 - Congratulations - 2nd place overall

Dear parents and caregivers

News in overnight is that as a gesture of good faith while negotiation talks continue next week, the PPTA has called off the rostering home of Year 10 students next Tuesday, so all Year 10 students will be expected at school that day (Tuesday 11 June).

Another matter relating to the PPTA industrial action is that we have sought advice about Tuesday 25 June. At the moment the position is:

- Year 11 students will be rostered home that day for the school day
- The Subject Teacher Interviews, starting at 3.30pm will go ahead, including interviews for Year 11 students. So when bookings open, both nights of the interviews (25 June and 4 July) are available for Year 11 students and their families. For more details about the upcoming interviews, see Page 2.

The professionalism and ability to grasp nuance in dance and drama and communicate those layers of understanding to an audience is a feature of EGGS curricular and co-curricular Arts and Culture. This was in absolute evidence at the recent Year 13 Drama production of Risk. For many of these students Year 13 is a culmination of their secondary school level journey in educational drama. They should be justly proud of their outstanding performance.

In the co-curricular sphere, Show Quest on Wednesday night was a wonderful occasion –a couple of images, above. Congratulations to all involved – student leaders Isobel Getty and Chloe Smith, on stage performers, off stage crew, including tech, make-up and costumes, and the teacher team headed by Sarah Brooks. More details on Page 7.

Important notice:

No entry to any part of Silver Road when dropping off or collecting students 7.35am - 8.35am and 3.00pm - 4.00pm.

Please make dropping and collecting your daughter from a nearby street a permanent habit.

Winter has arrived well and truly – students should be sensible about staying home if they are sick. It concerns me when I hear a senior student, who is obviously unwell, say something along the lines of I can't be away for even a day. When we are sick, we need to stay home. Appropriate arrangements for assessments can be talked about with the class teacher and the dean.

Lastly, I would like to endorse Chris Iles' reminder in the last edition of EGGSNEWS about how important parent donations are to the School. Thank-you to those who have chosen to pay the donation. To others, please consider this as parent donations are crucial to us delivering the depth and breadth of education here at Epsom Girls Grammar School.

Ngā mihi / Regards

Lorraine Pound - Principal

Year 12 Sustainability

Three Year 12 Education for Sustainability students have recently participated in an Auckland-wide competition to help eradicate invasive moth plants.

Ashleigh Brown came 3rd collecting a total of 1434 moth pods and won $200. Melosa and Melita Morris came 4th with 434 pods and won $100.

Moth plant has sticky white sap, damages the habitat of our native plant species and produces masses of seed pods which spread easily. If you see moth plant in a hedge or garden near you – make sure to pull it out!

Ngā Manu Kōrero

Waikamania with her grandfather Pierre Lyndon

Ngā Manu Kōrero is a Māori speech competition that aims to encourage fluency in both Te Reo Māori and English among Māori secondary students. It is a celebration of all things Māori and provides a platform for youth to voice their opinions on different issues and topics. Epsom Girls Grammar School falls under the Te Whaitua o Uenuku region which is hosted by Te Kura Māori o Ngā Tapuwae held at Te Wānanga o Aotearoa.

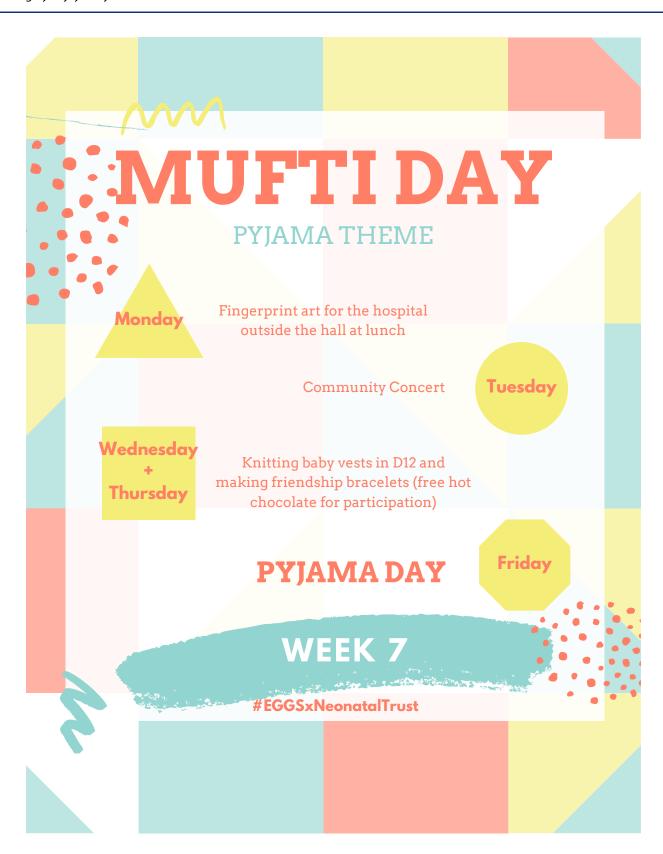

The day started off on Friday the 17th of May with a powhiri. The welcoming haka was performed by the students from Te Kura Māori o Ngā Tapuwae, we had speakers from the organisation, hosting school and speakers from various schools who replied to the tangata whenua. It was a great way to start off the proceedings.

Junior speakers would go on to compete with a prepared speech in either the Te Reo Māori or English junior speech competition, while senior speakers had to compete with an impromptu and prepared speech in either English or Te Reo Māori.

From our school, Waikamania Lyndon-Seve who is in Year 10 competed in the Junior English section. Waikamania did extremely well, coming away with the 2nd place trophy. We are all very proud of her accomplishments and dedication and in our hearts we know that she came first. The judges deducted 5 points off Waikamania's overall score because she went over the time limit by one second, making her miss out on first place by only 3 points.

Although a speech competition, Ngā Manu Kōrero is about more than just speeches and provides an opportunity for people to make new connections, celebrate the Māori culture and have a lot of fun.

Students and teachers alike gave service to the school and helped to make Ngā Manu Kōrero a great celebration of the Māori culture. The day was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

Elisa Chan - Senior Interior Designer at hcreates Shanghai City comes to speak at EGGS

Our new teacher in the Technology Department this year, Stephen Ullrich has a family connection with Elisa.

During Elisa's recent visit to NZ we jumped at the chance to have her talk to our Year 10 Spatial Design students sharing some of the projects she has worked on, her challenges and tips for budding interior designers.

Elisa studied and completed an MA in Interior Architecture at L'ecole Bleue, in Paris.

After graduating from L'ecole Bleue Elisa's first postion was with the Louis Vuitton Store Interior Design team based in Paris.

Elisa shared her experience of working for a luxury brand such as Louis Vuitton and mentioned that the experience gave her a great grounding and insight into working for a global corporate across cultures and continents.

It was no surprise to hear that while working for a Louis Vuitton sounded very glamourous, the work itself was not overly aspirational as the opportunity to creatively influence was limited as working for Louis Vuitton required the designer to work within very restrictive agreed brand guidelines set down by the lead architect.

Elisa is passionate about having the opportunity to use her creative design skills and spoke about her enjoyment of partnering with clients to achieve spaces that are designed to enhance one's environment, and leave people feeling stimulated and inspired. This drove her to move to Shanghai China where she initially worked as a freelance interior designer. There she worked on the Christian Dior retail formats however the majority of her work was in the hospitality sector designing bar and café interiors.

Working now as the senior interior designer at hcreates based in Shanghai she specialises in creating edgy interiors for retailers around the world – particularly in Food and Beverage.

The design philosophy at hereates comes from an ingrained sense of Kiwi ingenuity (the owner grew up in the South Island), innovation and practicality. Design should be simple, clever and fun, creating spaces for people to collaborate and connect as they work, eat and play. Most of the projects are 500 – 1000m<sup>2</sup> and on average are a 6 month duration from concept to completion.

Elisa told us that the concept to design process was now highly digitalised in 3D Design programs such as Vectorworks, AutoCAD and SketchUP which means there is no longer the traditional hand drawn concept sketches. This has the benefit of enabling designers to work off floor plans remotely and in most cases, the interior designer never actually visits the site at any stage. She said she has worked on many projects that she has never actually visited!

Her design ideas are generated from attending Trade Shows as well as working with suppliers to showcase products. Pinterest was another way Elisa sought inspiration! Her greatest challenge has been the work-life balance after having children. Of course working in China with the obvious language barrier was another challenge. Her greatest tip for the future for our girls was to network, network, you never know when a connection or interaction turns into a career pathway opportunity.

AT L'ECOLE BLEUE,

we discover and we learn.
We conceptualize,
experiment,
produce,
create and succeed,
And every once in a while we may fail,
but we're still making progress ...

ARTS & CULTURAL NEWS

Show Quest 2019

On 5th June 91 students competed in Show Quest 2019 (formally Stage Challenge) at Spark Arena. They did amazingly well and came away with multiple awards as well as coming 2nd overall. We are so proud of our result and our awesome team.

Our 10 minute performance was based around a young person pursued by the whispers of insecurity, and damaging thoughts that encase their mind, breaking down their confidence and overwhelming them with self-consciousness. They face ups and downs in their journey, eventually discovering that they cannot sustain shutting down their thoughts altogether. They then learn to work with their thoughts, teaching those whispers to be kind. By understanding their worth and learning that they are enough, through any judgement that they feel comes their way, they are able to free themselves from the hurtful feelings entangled in their mind.

We hope to trigger a thought process for the viewers of this performance, acting as a catalyst in people's journeys of overcoming self-consciousness and learning that their value can never change and that they are enough.

Congratulations to everyone involved and especially the leadership team and lead dancers-

FOUNDATION NEWS

Building a brighter future for Epsom Girls

The L Block renovation will create positive outcomes for young women, a multi-functional space for connected and collaborative studying and a stronger sense of community.

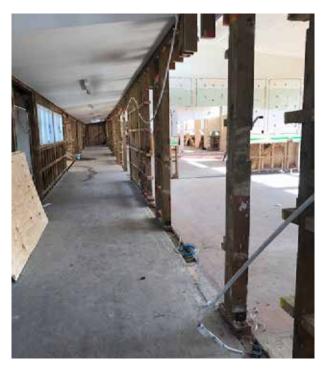

Work is well under way renovating L Block into a flexible multi-functional learning environment.

Many thanks to our generous donors who have enabled us to raise the funds to extend the flexible learning environment to a multi-purpose outdoor space. This space will be for breakout learning, meetings, individual and group work and covered recreational space for lunchtimes.

Here are some pictures taken last week showing many of the interior walls and linings that separated the classrooms and corridors now stripped away.

From the outside you can see where there are boarded over openings that will eventually make way for a series of 4 covered deck areas located along the length of the building, facing north and stepping down to the asphalt strip.

It is anticpiated that the outdoor area will enhance:

- encouragement of creative and critical thinking
- optimise learning
- · student achievement
- provide access to the winter sun's light and heat
- provides protection from summer heat and sun
- gives shelter from the rain during all seasons

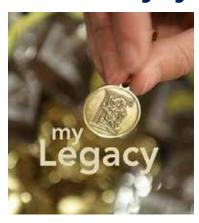

The flexible learning environment creates positive, supportive relationships between students and teachers and forms the basis for our learning. The space will be a vibrant, well connected, physical environment that encourages and supports our students through their EGGS journey.
